The general subject will be "Crime Prevention and Control", and the speakers scheduled include Arlington's police chief Archie F. Bullock, Judge Edward A. Counihan, Jr., of the Third Eastern Middlesex District Court; Joseph M. McElroy, Sheriff of Middlesex County and Master of the House of Correction; and Arthur T. Lyman, Commissioner of Correction for Massachusetts. Members of the Arlington Board of Selectmen are among the invited guests.

Urge Town to Rent Public Parking Lot

The Arlington Center Business Associates are sponsoring an article to be inserted in the warrant for the annual town meeting, calling for the annual appropriation of $600 for rental on a piece of property near the business section, to be used for free public parking space. The land, containing 23,290 square feet, is owned by the Peirce & Winn Coal Company and is located just off Mystic street, between Winslow and Prescott streets.

Local Legion Post Sends Clothing to Flooded Louisville

Past Commander David A. Wilcox is chairman of the flood relief committee of Arlington Post, No. 39, American Legion, and reports that already more than two truckloads of warm clothing have left the post headquarters for the flood area surrounding Louisville, Kentucky.

The Legion headquarters on Massachusetts avenue, just below Pond lane, has been designated as one of the local flood relief depots, and Chairman Wilcox urges donations from Arlington people. The post itself has already appropriated one hundred dollars. The post will be open day and night until Monday. If necessary, a Legionnaire will call at the home of the prospective donor to pick up contributions. Telephone Arlington 5659. It will be remembered that the local post acted as receiving and delivering agents for donations last year during the Massachusetts flood. Mr. Wilcox was also chairman of that committee.

WARRANTS CLOSED

The Selectmen have closed the warrants for the annual town meetings of March 1 and March 19, and also for the special town meeting of February 11.

"BOOMERANG" AT LOCAL TOWN HALL TOMORROW NITE

Many Arlington People Augment Professional Cast.

Boomerang! It is called one of the outstanding plays of the season. Similar in theme to Idiot's Delight, which is soon coming to Boston, it deals with the clever scheming of munitions manufacturers to promote war. The play has plenty of laughs in spite of its seriousness of theme. High comedy relief is provided by Mrs. George Tewksbury in the role of Sadie Higginbottom, the woman who makes a newspaper unnecessary. She plays several comedy scenes with Russell Perham, the pompous butler Perkins, whose unbearable dignity irks Sadie.

Of the professional trio carrying the lead roles, John Powers and his sister Susan, played by Alice Hepburn, are in the constant conflict of the peace lover and the war promoter. Oscar Briggs, near-sighted, awkward, slow to action, is a lovable character. The audience will gasp with delight when

To Give 4th Annual Theatrical Ball on Lincoln's Birthday

The Friends of the Drama present, not a play this time, but their fourth annual Theatrical Ball at Robbins Memorial Town Hall on the evening of Lincoln's birthday, which comes next week. The gay affairs of the past three years have made the theatrical ball a fixture in Arlington's social life, and its patrons are eagerly looking forward to the 1937 edition.

Arrangements, under the direction of Mrs. David R. Kennedy and Philip H. Burt, co-chairmen, have been already completed and call not only for dancing, a costume parade, refreshments and lavish decorations, but for professional entertainment, as well. Costume prizes will be awarded at the conclusion of the grand march, which will take place early in the evening this year. There will be a man's prize and a woman's prize for the "most striking" costume and for the most beautifully costumed couple. Two prizes will go to the "most unique", two to the "most comical" and two to the "most authentic".

Posters, executed by members of the organization, are now on display in windows of the local prize donors.

Has Been Appraising Property for 24 Years

David A. Wilcox, who is a candidate to fill his own unexpired term on the Board of Assessors, was elected to the board last spring when Earl A. Ryder resigned to give full time to his duties as town clerk. Mr. Wilcox was elected in joint meeting of the remaining Assessors and the Board of Selectmen.

President Thomas McHall of the National Federation of Labor spoke on organization and cooperation and also outlined how the Federation is functioning throughout the state.

Other officers of the federation spoke on subjects pertaining to their office. Following the meeting there was a short entertainment given by Vice-President Rabbett and Secretary Lawrence McKnight of the National Federation.

President Henry Fenochetti presided.

CLEAN UP 13 STICK-UPS WITH ARREST OF WATERTOWN PAIR

Quick Capture Made Possible by Radio and Alert Filling Station Attendant. Officers Curran and Clinton Peabody Take "Taxi Robbers" at Gun-Point.

President's Ball Crowd Enjoys Very Successful Party

Perhaps because this was not an election year the crowd which attended the President's Birthday Ball at Robbins Memorial Town Hall was not quite so large as the capacity audience which jammed every available inch last year on the same occasion. Nevertheless, there was a goodly gathering of townspeople who came to pay tribute to the President of the United States and at the same time to aid in the fight against infantile paralysis. Although the exact amount has not yet been determined, it is understood that a goodly sum was realized, and most of that amount will be used for the infantile clinic in Arlington.

As he did last year, General Chairman P. Joseph McManus stresses the fact that the fund is still open and that contributions may be mailed to him, to the treasurer, Henry E. Keenan, or to secretary Frank H. Lansing.

As a party, the occasion was a great success in every way. It was obvious that the people who crowded the balcony enjoyed the entertainment which was supplied by the W. P. A. and by pupils of Miss Irene Charron's school of dancing. The stage was tastefully decorated by representatives of four of the

Two Watertown youths, who kidnapped a taxi driver and used his machine while they held up Arthur Cardinal's filling station at 264 Massachusetts avenue, were caught by Curran and Peabody and were locked up just two minutes after the officers had received the alarm by radio.

The cast was subject to some kind of attack, either of accident or of illness, and no less than six principals were forced out completely by illness. To climax everything, the leading contralto, Dorothy Robinson, fell downstairs at the clubhouse just before the last performance and snapped the ligaments in her ankle. She was carried onto the stage to play her part.

Hardy Crowd

On the other hand, the members of the chorus proved themselves a hardy crowd. With two exceptions they went from the beginning of rehearsals through the final performance without a casualty, with the result that the ensemble work was excellent. Several critical musicians called the choruses the best that they had ever heard, short of professional British companies. The one exception to the absence from the sick list among men was Arthur Sampson, who was unable to appear the last night. It might be assumed that Mr. Sampson was susceptible because of the fact that he had at first been cast as the Pirate King, but had been forced to relinquish the part because of previous illness. Lillian Snow was the only girl to fall by the wayside.

Voice Gives Out

After the leading soprano, Marie Timmons, had been taken with severe illness, Elizabeth Howe took the part of Mabel on short notice and was able to sing the complete role on Wednesday, but the next night her cold gave way to laryngitis, and her voice gave out in the middle of the performance. Her poise was superb as she struggled to finish the first act and as she went through the second and last, being assisted by Lillian Rice and Helen Center. The next day she was prostrated with a high temperature. Everyone was terribly disappointed when Mrs. Howe was unable to continue. Her clear lyric soprano was one of the delights of the opera.

Without Hesitation

Nevertheless, the calamity of Mrs. Howe's sickness did not prevent tremendous success for the show the next night. At ten o'clock that morning Lillian Rice was informed that it was up to her to step into the gap and, without hesitation she accepted the seemingly impossible task. The result was a triumph. Miss Rice's breath-taking performance demanded the greatest ovation ever accorded any performer on a Friends of the Drama stage. In one day of feverish concentration and practice with Mr. Center, she not only learned several intricate songs, but she mastered a long sequence of dialogue at the same time. She very richly deserved the praises which were heaped upon her.

Miss Rice started in the soprano section of the chorus, but stepped up into the part of Edith when Kathleen Howard was taken to the hospital to have her tonsils removed. Her final superhuman leap into the role of Mabel took her soaring to the top of the list of Friends of the Drama immortals.

Consummate Skill

Second only to the accomplishment of Miss Rice was that of Russell Hamlet, who had only eight days to prepare one of the most difficult of all Gilbert & Sullivan roles, that of the Major General. Naturally, it was too much to expect absolute perfection, particularly in the inevitable tongue-twisting patter song, but with his consummate skill at comedy, Mr. Hamlet made his performance one of the high spots of the show for the fifth consecutive year of Friends of the Drama experience with Gilbert & Sullivan. Hugh Curry, who had been originally cast as the Major General, was in the audience Saturday night, in spite of the fact that Saturday was his first day out after a severe illness. He could not say enough in praise of his successor.

Rich Power

For downright rich power of voice and for picturesque characterization, Robert Rutledge was outstanding in the cast. Mr. Rutledge was fighting a bad throat on each of the four nights of the show, but he did not let that fact become a detriment to his superb performance as the Pirate King. It is doubtful that his rich bass-baritone voice could be matched anywhere in amateur ranks.

Warren Ford, another possessor of a powerful voice, in his case a tenor, was the pirate king's lieutenant, and he too gave a splendid performance. But he very nearly went down to defeat before his heavy cold on the last night of the show; when he arrived at the clubhouse, he could hardly speak at all. Nevertheless, he came through in fine style, his voice improving as the show progressed.

Longest Role

James Carmody, who had the romantic tenor role, Frederick, was third leading man to be scheduled for the part, and he also had but a short time for rehearsal. His was the longest role in the opera, and he played and sang it to very near perfection. His love scene with Mabel was particularly well done.

In a short talk to cast and chorus before the performance Friday night, Director Ed Center mentioned the fact that Dorothy Robinson was practically the only member of the cast still exempt from sickness and added that the show would go on just the same Saturday night, even if the "Piratical Maid of All Work" fell down stairs and broke a leg.

Prophetic

With that remark Mr. Center proved himself something of a prophet. Miss Robinson did fall down stairs, and while she did not break a leg, she did the next thing to it. Anyway, the show went on just the same. Miss Robinson sang her part beautifully and with a smile, although she was in terrible pain and could not walk at all.

Incidentally, one of the unsung heroes of the production was Dr. George W. Bowly, who did yeoman work, massaging throats, taking kinks out of stiff necks and strapping sprained ankles. He had a new patient or two every night.

Small But Hardy

The smallest lass in the cast proved to be the most hardy. Mildred Anderson remained in the part for which she was cast from the beginning until the end. It may sound strange that we should call such a little girl a pillar of strength, but she was just that. Hers was not only a triumph of voice and action, but a victory of health as well. The audience loved her.

And last but far from least we have David Kennedy, the Sergeant of Police. As has been the case from the very first comic opera produced by the Friends of the Drama, Dr. Kennedy was one of the chief focal points for comedy. His characterization of the timidly inclined London Bobby was very well done.

The Chorus

The chorus was made up of the following:—

Sopranos — Ethelwyn Bartlett, Margaret Hall, Lillian Snow, Helen Center, Dorothy Delay, Laura Sampson, Anne Kennedy, Helen Bowly, Estelle Robertson, Florence Tee.

Altos — Dorothea Johnson, Beatrice Ring, Jessie Kennedy, Ethel Belyea, Nancy Webb.

Baritone — James Snow, Arthur Sampson, Harold Yeames, Maurice Tulin.

Basses — Brenton Roberts, Parker Wood, Donald Robertson, Merrill Cook, Everett Glines.

Even the orchestra was not exempt from sickness. Leonard Wood who assisted Mr. Center in organizing the unit, was barely able to struggle through the final performance because of aching arms

Following the last performance, the entire company repaired to Wyman's Tavern for a celebration and to review almost the whole show. Director Center was presented with a few pieces of silver in a diminutive pirate chest. Miss Jane Rouse the long-suffering pianist, was also remembered by the cast.

"TAXI ROBBERIES"

Reformatory for armed robbery and that Ravesi also had a criminal record. They were arrested as suspicious persons, which does not permit of bail, and until Tuesday were in the Arlington lock-up, where they have been identified by several former victims, it is claimed. Both are being held for the grand jury. The Arlington case is air-tight, police believe. When arrested, Files was carrying a heavy automatic pistol, cocked and ready to shoot. The stolen money, some $40, was found in their possession. It is also reported that the both men made full confession of the robbery and signed the statement.

Not Intimidated

Chief Bullock points out that the capture would not have been possible without the police radio system and without the quick thinking of George Smith, 19, the filling station attendant. One of the robbers pushed George into the grease room at the point of a gun and told him not to move for five minutes if he knew what was good for him. The boy was not to be intimidated, however, and wrote down the number of the taxi, which he could see through the window. The instant the car drove off he telephoned the police and gave desk Lieutenant Barry the registration number. Officers Curran and Peabody were in one of the department's cruising cars on Massachusetts avenue just two or three hundred yards below the filling station. They were listening to the alarm broadcast when the designated taxicab went by them.

Drawn Revolvers

The taxi was going so slowly that they began to think that they had made a mistake in the number, but of course they followed just the same. The cab turned left into the parkway at the brook and stopped for the red light at Broadway. As it stopped the police drew up alongside and made the arrest with drawn revolvers. Although armed, the pair made no resistance.

The taxi-driver, Eugene Caswell, 26, of Waltham, said later that after the hold-up he had been in-old almshouse, snows the rust marks of the hand-wrought nails. A rope moulding adds immensely to the quaintness of the rooms. The large fireplace has an old kettle and on both sides are lanterns which were presented to past chiefs, one in 1902 and the other in 1907. A bookcase stands in one corner with a ship on the top, and a round window giving the effect of a porthole is in the background. The radiators are built into the walls, and the set-in windows have Venetian blinds. In the center of the room for a chandelier is an old carriage wheel with an extra light in the center which goes on to warn of a fire; the mate of the wheel will be used outside as a gate. H-L hinges made by the blacksmith on the project are on the doors, and a piece of a rein used years ago enables one to lift the latch of the door on one side. In the kitchen are a bucksaw table and benches, plenty of cupboard room, a fine sink, and a refrigerator.

Miss Esther Wyman, Arlington landscape architect, has voluntarily given her services to enhance the garden, and the change in the formerly drab yard is remarkable. A grape arbor will be on one side of the station. In the center of the garden is a huge millstone, weighing a ton and twenty-eight pounds, dating back to Cutter's Mill in 1704. A stone which was used in a saw factory about 1854 is in another section of the garden. There will be an arborway as well as the stone walls covered with rambling roses. At the top in the rear of the building are imitation pigeon holes.

Chief Daniel Tierney has some excellent ideas for furniture suitable in such a setting, if he can realize his plans.

structed to drive slowly and obey all traffic regulations. "We don't want to be pinched just for going through a red light, or something," one of the pair had remarked.

College Freshman

George Smith, the quick-witted attendant, is a freshman at the Cambridge School of Liberal Arts, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Smith of 21 Newport street.

The taxi-driver claimed that Files and Ravesi had hailed him in Waverley Square, Watertown, and had told him to take them to Market street in Brighton. On the way, one of them had pushed a pistol against his back and ordered him to stop. Ravesi drove the cab to Arlington while Files guarded Caswell as he sat in the back seat.

CHURCHES OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

"Spirit" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, February 7.

The Golden Text is: "We all, with open face, beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord" (II Corinthians 3:18).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would. But if ye be led of the Spirit, ye are not under the law" (Galatians 5:16-18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God requires perfection, but not until the battle between Spirit and flesh is fought and the victory won. To stop eating, drinking, or being clothed materially before the spiritual facts of existence are gained step by step, is not legitimate. When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path. Imperfect mortals grasp the ultimate of spiritual perfection slowly; but to begin aright and to continue the strife of demonstrating the great problem of being, is doing much" (p. 254).

Dr. Coe has had churches in Washington, D. C., Dover, N. H., and Brockton; and he is now Minister of the Leyden Church, Brookline. He was on the faculty of the Northfield Conference of Religious Education for five years.

Local Men Promoting Week-End Retreat

A week-end retreat for men will be held at Saint Gabriel's Monastery, 159 Washington street, Brighton, over the week-end of February 26-28, promoted by John B. Davidson, Geo. H. Lowe, Jr., Robert J. Forrest, Thomas D. Kennedy, William F. McClellan, James J. Golden, Jr., and Francis Keefe of Arlington.

They explain that a closed retreat is distinct from any other religious or social activity in this; that the retreatant lives for forty-eight hours in a world set apart from speed, worry, strife, and universal unrest.

The dread of monotony is dispelled with healthy relaxations. During recreation periods the men chat, smoke and engage in various sports. The food in the dining room is always plentiful and appetizing. The privacy of one's own room gives a man plenty of time to rest, to read and to do a bit of serious thinking.

The schedule calls for the arrival at the Monastery Friday evening at 6 o'clock in time for supper and concludes on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock.

Non-Catholic men are cordially invited.

—The many friends of Richard Mallory of 8 Belknap street are sorry to learn that he has been ill for the past week.

Service League Explains Activities

After ten years of service in the Town of Arlington in religious activity, the Arlington-Somerville Service League will hold its meetings one month in Arlington and the next month in West Somerville.

The West Somerville membership has for one year been asking for regular meetings there.

Therefore, the executive board, with the approval of its president, starting February 1, 1937, will carry out their wish with the hope that its work will become more of a blessing to its membership and that a greater good and an increased service may make it a better and stronger League.

Its active officers and members, the officers and board of members being the law body of the organization, are as follows: executive board: W. E. Valentine, president and chairman; David A. Snow, vice president; Mrs. Mae Miller, secretary; Mrs. David A. Snow, secretary to president; Mrs. S. M. Whitman, Mrs. A. D. Wilson, Mrs. George A. Briggs, N. N. Hartwell and Mr. Rand, the official members; Miss Ruth D. Rand, director of music; Mrs. A. Upton, press correspondent; James Watt, chairman of sick committee.

Will Present Illustrated Lecture to Universalists

Thursday evening, February 11, Rev. Laurence L. Barber will give an illustrated lecture on New England Beautiful, at the Universalist Church. He will show 125 colored slides of scenic interest in four New England states. Views of Massachusetts, the northern part of Maine, and Vermont and New Hampshire, showing both the lake and mountain regions as well as some places of historic interest.

Through a number of years Mr. Barber has been taking pictures in these various states and the result at present is a remarkable group of unusually beautiful and artistic views. Along with the pictures Mr. Barber has a most interesting way of presenting the story of the trip. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

Host is Absent From Calvary Choir Party

The choir of Calvary M. E. Church was the guest of John Hyloslop at the church on Friday evening. A delicious turkey dinner was served under the direction of Mrs. Carl S. Nelson. The tables were prettily decorated in blue and white plants and favors, by Miss Louise Fader. Remarks were made by both Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Budd, Jr., and C. S. Nelson, the choir director.

Officers were elected for the following year: President, Everett Watt; vice president, Mrs. Wm. Lovejoy; secretary and librarian, Miss Dorothy Hall; treasurer, G. S. Crooker. This was followed by a lecture and pictures on the beginning and growth of the church organ by a representative of the Frazer Organ Co., after which games were played.

As Mr. Hyloslop was sick at home and unable to enjoy the pleasant evening, a beautiful bouquet of spring flowers was sent to him in appreciation of his kindness to the choir.

Another Charming Dancing Party at St. John's Church

Last Friday evening the young set enjoyed another of the very charming dancing parties held at St. John's Episcopal Church. The hall was made festive with many Japanese lanterns and beautiful paisley shawls hung at various places on the walls. Miss Lena Lenk, Miss Alice Grayce Lenk, and Mrs. Osborne Keleher received the young people from the matrons' corner, which was beautifully banked with palms. Members of Mrs. Rowland's group had charge of the arrangements, with Mrs. Irving Poole, Mrs. Oswald Yeames, and Mrs. Ernest R. Brooks presiding over the punch-bowl. The prudential committee was composed of Mrs. James H. Kernan, Mrs. Frank L. Newcomb, and Mrs. Arthur D. Saul. Mr. Kernan, Dr. Brooks, and Roland Johnson ably assisted the ladies during the evening. The ushers corps was headed by Robert Hancock, supported by Ernest Benishimol, Harold Bond, Francis Knight, Clifton Orchard, and Russell Wise.

Al Bowen and his Men of Rhythm furnished the music, which was greatly enjoyed by the young people. To add to the fun, many friends of Miss Charlotte Morrill requested that the band play "Happy Birthday to You" in honor of the young lady's birthday.

Ten of the young people were entertained preceding the dance, at the Engineers' Club of Boston at a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. John Ingebreten in honor of their daughter, Miss Marion. This group increased the festivities of the occasion by appearing at the hall in gay hats that added to the already colorful gathering.

YOUR COMMUNITY CHEST

Somewhere in Arlington—there is a family, comprising man, wife and eight children. The man is out of a job and has no money. Clearly a case for public relief, isn't it? And, properly so, he is receiving relief. He is working a few days a month for enough to cover the payment of his rent. In addition, he is receiving money. He is receiving some six dollars LESS than it costs to feed his family according to the MINIMUM requirements as determined by the Community Health Federation. And when they figure minimum it is minimum.

Public relief cannot do everything. There is far too much for it to do—far too many calls upon it. Just to give this family some money and a few days' work for the father, is not enough. You and I do not want these children to go hungry. We do not want these parents to lose courage. Particularly we do not want them to lose faith in their fellow men—in us. What can we do about it?

Not so long ago we would have made this family an object of private charity. But that is the last thing we want any good American family to be forced to accept today. This is not a problem of a charitable nature. It is a community problem—a neighborhood problem. We want to keep this family going until the man can again obtain full time employment, don't we? And this is exactly what we are doing. Our local Family Welfare Society is helping this family for the time being. The mother is being helped to select the foods best suited for the children, so that she can get the utmost value out of the public relief money she has available. That money is being supplemented with supplies of milk, other food and clothing until such time as their temporary need has been overcome. The Visiting Nursing Association is keeping an eye upon the children and is helping the mother to guard their health. Before long, with things looking up and with these good neighbors taking an interest, someone will find a job for the father.

All this is something far removed from public relief—and a thousand times better than charity. Community helpfulness of this kind has been going on in this town for years, but now, for the first time, we are all going to get together and make it more than ever a community undertaking. For it is essentially a community job.

You and I would like to help this family—and all the others needing help in one way or another. But we cannot do much as individuals. Even if we knew where help is most needed, we haven't the money or the time or the knowledge of what to do. Fortunately, we have these organized groups who know where help is needed, who know what to do and how to do it, and who are volunteering their time to attend to these things for us. This necessary community help is being rendered for us—in our behalf.

And now, once a year, we are going to be asked—you and I—to help pay the bill through the Arlington Community Chest. In other words, this Community Chest is you and I working together to do the things we want done and we are all going to chip in our bit to help pay to have them done.

QUESTION - ANSWER

The interest in the Community Chest, Arlington's most progressive project, is vividly emphasized by the great numbers of questions sent into Chest Headquarters.

The latest question to reach this office is general in scope, and can only be answered by sub-dividing into a series of questions, each of which must be answered separately.

The general question: What relationship is the Welfare Council to the Public Welfare Department?

Subdivided, several questions can be answered that will finally answer the general question.

1. What cases cannot be handled by Public Welfare and then must be handled by your private agency, The Arlington Welfare Council?

Answer—*Where settlement (length of residence) is less than five years, state regulations prevent Public Welfare from granting aid.

*State regulations allow only a limited equity in real estate. In this case, the home in which the applicant lives. If the equity is over the limited amount, Public Welfare cannot grant aid.

*Border line cases, families with sufficient income to meet their needs, but of an amount that prevents Public Welfare from accepting their applications, and must be supplemented by the Welfare Council.

*Soldiers Relief applications. Until applications for Soldiers Relief are approved by the Commonwealth, it is not feasible for Public Welfare to list the case as Public

FAST-SKATING MEDFORD SIX SLAPS LOCALS IN 1st PERIOD

Arlington Boys Lose Second Encounter with Medford by 2 to 1 Score. Chipman Heads Single Successful Rush.

By J. Leo Donohue

Smarting under its defeat by Stoneham of a week ago, Arlington again lost to Medford at the Arena Saturday, by a score of 2 to 1. The local club was no match for the fast skating Medford sextet. Led by Charley Stanley, the Medfordites put on one of the best exhibitions of fast skating hockey ever seen in a league contest. When the first period opened it looked as if Medford was going to roll up quite a score on Arlington when they counted twice in the first seven minutes of play. Arlington succeeded in slowing them up in the second session and the third period found Arlington getting one goal and keeping the old puck in Medford territory for the most part of the period.

Medford opened up the first period with a series of raids on Arlington's Dutton in the net. These attacks were too much for Dutton, who went down for the count at the five-minute mark on a long shot by Stanley that bounced its way past him into the strings. Medford got the jump on Arlington when the local lads staged a counter-rush after the Stanley goal and a backhander by Carroll on a pass from Southwick did the trick. No more scoring was seen in this session, but the hot scramble for the puck was continuous.

The second period was virtually a repetition of the last half of the first stanza, with Arlington having a slight edge. The Downsmen sent the forward wall deep into Medford territory while the defense stationed themselves at the Medford blue line to keep the puck in scoring distance of the Medford net. This slowed up Medford quite a lot and did not give their powerhouse skaters much of a chance to get going. Towards the end of the period Medford succeeded in driving Arlington back but the bell rang before they could capitalize.

Arlington came back strong in the last period and started off on an offensive drive that almost amounted to something. Five men were sent into Medford territory again. On one of these five-man rushes Arlington was able to contact with a score. Johnny Chipman took a pass from Duffey in front of the Medford net and fired point blank into the pocket. The local club appeared to have touched off fire, but it dwindled to smoke when Medford went back to its tactics of wide open hockey, therefore spreading Arlington all over the ice, unable to organize for an attack.

The score:

MEDFORD—Stanley, Riley, Rosenthal, lw; Carroll, Browne, De Voe, c; Southwick, Schena, McPherson, rw; Dixon, ld; Hughes, rd; Meoli, g.

ARLINGTON FIVE BREAKS LOSING STREAK AT LAST

Corbett Scores 22 Points in Win Over Cambridge Latin.

Behind by nine points at the half, the Red Ruffians of Arlington, paced by "Mush" Corbett, finally managed to emerge the victors over the Cambridge Latin quintet, 31-28, at the Rindge gym last Tuesday afternoon. This victory snapped the seven-game losing streak, the local outfit has suffered. "Mush" Corbett was the high scorer, with 22 points, although he was handicapped by a bad ankle. "Shorty" Thomas showed a great amount of improvement in his playing.

The first half was all Latin. Lovett opened by sinking a push shot and a foul shot. Mike Burke scored first for Arlington with a foul shot. Baskets by Meney and Marinn and two foul shots placed Latin further in the lead. Thomas scored a basket for Arlington before the period closed, with Cambridge leading 9-3.

"Mush" Corbett got the first of his many points by dribbling down the court and sinking an easy push shot. Lovett, Marinn and West scored for Latin before Corbett again scored with an overhead shot. Stack and West scored baskets, with Corbett again sinking a push shot. Corbett scored all the Arlington points in this period. The score at the half was 20-11 with Latin leading.

The third period saw Arlington cutting into Cambridge Latin's lead. Marinn scored all the points for Latin, three, while "Mush" Corbett scored eight points and Mike Burke, two for the locals.

Baskets by Corbett and Thomas tied the score early in the fourth period. A basket by Corbett put Arlington in the lead, but Latin tied the score on a push shot by Glacken. A one-hand shot from the foul line and a push shot, both by Corbett, put Arlington in the lead for the rest of the game. Latin crept up on baskets by Glacken and Stack, but Corbett garnered two points on foul shots to put the game on ice for Arlington.

Arlington A. A. Wins Thriller from Rangers

The Arlington A. A. pinned a 43-42 defeat on the Arlington Rangers at the Arlington High School on Thursday night to clinch the first half title of the Town Basketball League.

The game was a thriller from start to finish and it was not until the last 35 seconds that the A. A. scored on a foul shot by Tommie O'Keefe to win the game.

The stellar performances for both teams stood out in the sensational play of P. O'Connor and Charlie Lowder for the A. A. and Frankie Keefe and Dines Driscoll for the Rangers.

The A. A. took a commanding lead of 29-14 at half time, but the Rangers came back very strong in the second half to all but tie it up. The A. A. had a fine passing and shooting team and was not to be denied by the older and more experienced opponents. The A. A. has yet to meet defeat in competition in the league.

Sports Advocate

Well, the basketballers finally broke the old jinx that has been following them around these past two weeks or so. It can be said that "Mush" Corbett single-handedly defeated the Cantabs with his 22 points out of 31 for the team.

"Soup" Campbell and Bill Duddy are living up to their nicknames of "The Glommer Twins". Campbell sunk the tying basket as the gun barked in the first overtime period of the second team game at Cambridge Tuesday.

Eddie McEwen, individualist of last year's basketball team, is Arlington's most rabid roofer. "Mac" always manages to take time off from his hackman's duties to follow the team wherever they may go.

The hoopsters have two more games slated for this week. Newton and Medford are teams that have beaten them before, but after Thursday's exhibition, anything can happen.

Arlington will cross sticks and checks with Cambridge Latin at the Garden Saturday. Arlington squeezed out a win over Latin in their last meeting and will be out to repeat.

In closing, the Sports Advocate offers his humblest of apologies to former coach Joe Bevins and all the members of the 1928 Tech championship team. The erroneous statement of two weeks ago has caused quite a stir among the local alumni, but far be it from this column to let any mistake go by without a retraction.

St. Jerome's Sanctuary Boys Given Banquet

The second annual banquet of the Sanctuary Boys' Society of St. Jerome's Parish, Arlington and Belmont, was enjoyed Thursday last at the temporary rectory, 128 Lake street, with the pastor, Rev. Jos. M. Fitzgibbons, as host. Twenty boys partook of the feast and gave vent to their happy enthusiasm in word and music. The occasion was an annual gratitude party given by the pastor for the altar boys' faithful service in the sanctuary and the successful annual bridge and whist conducted by them in the interest of the parish fund.

Papers, scholarly and entertaining, were read by some of the officers of the society: President, Richard Corbett, gave the "Prophecy"; Secretary Wm. Woolfolk read the "Poem"; Governor John Lyons, Jr., discoursed on the "Catholic Scientists and Discoveries"; and Committeeman Nicholas Troiano compiled the "History" of the organization. The "Amateur Contest" was held following the readings, and much talent in vocal selections and recitations was uncovered, to the satisfaction of the pastor for his future entertainment.

Senior High School Notes

Several teachers have been victims of the prevalent gripe during the past week. Miss Alice Great, head of the English department, and Miss Eugenia C. Peck, a member of the English staff, have been among them. Miss Helen Nash, teacher of bookkeeping and business law, is recuperating in Florida from her near attack of pneumonia, and will probably not return to school until March first.

A good sized aquarium has recently been purchased for the biology room. It is equipped with certain fresh water creatures for the interest of the students in biology.

Another recent acquisition for the biology department is a micro-projector, which throws onto a screen what can be seen through a microscope. In this way, the entire class can virtually be looking through the microscope all at once.

charter renewal for Troop 6 was presented to Rev. Grady D. Feagan, pastor, who accepted it in behalf of the church. Scout Executive Mellin inducted a new scout Ethan C. Hopkins, and presented him with his badge.

The entire Troop was in uniform, but Scoutmaster Richard W. Howe was unavoidably absent on account of sickness.

Mr. Hawkes then presented certificates to the members of the Troop Committee, Chairman Carl A. Everberg, and Carl W. Alsen, Jr., Francis W. Porter and Charles Reay, and read the resolution passed at the annual meeting of the council commending the church for its long term of sponsorship of the troop.

The principal address was delivered in forceful fashion by Scout Commissioner Franklin P. Hawkes. He reminded the Men's Class of

Recital Monday evening, performing a Spanish Toe Dance.

"COLLEGE HOLIDAY"

AT THE UNIVERSITY

They're here again—the four comedians who made such great entertainment of "The Big Broadcast of 1937"—Jack Benny, George Burns and Gracie Allen, and Martha Raye—in another melange of beauty, charm, comedy and harmony. It's titled "College Holiday," and it begins on Sunday at the University Theatre. Mary Boland is also included in the cast of fun-makers, while Eleanor Whitney, Olympe Bradna, Louis D'Arcon and Ben Blue are on hand with specialty numbers. The romantic interest is maintained by Marsha Hunt and Lief Erikson. "College Holiday" is an original screen comedy written by J. P. McEvoy. In it Benny is the press agent of a bankrupt hotel who flees in a bedsheet after the sheriff strips him of his clothing. Thus attired, he is met by Miss Boland and Gracie Allen, slightly bawdy cutlits, who are on their way to take over the hotel to try out their theories. They are dressed in ancient Roman garb. Thinking Benny a member of the cult, they send him east to bring back a swarm of college girls and boys. Gracie Allen, also a member of the cult, is to pair the youngsters off.

Lilting music, rollicking laughter and glowing romance combining to make "Sing Me a Love Song," the companion feature, one of the most entertaining comedies of the year. There is an all star cast headed by James Melton, the radio singer, Patricia Ellis, Hugh Herbert, Zasu Pitts, Allen Jenkins and Nat Pendleton.

On Wednesday, Review Day, the program includes "A Tale of Two Cities," one of the ten best of 1936. "Gold Diggers of 1937"—fourth and most elaborate of the famed series of musical movies which began in 1929 with "Gold Diggers of Broadway," and carried on with "Gold Diggers of 1933" and "1935," starts Thursday. This 1937 edition co-stars those newsweds, Dick Powell and Joan Blondell. It features Victor Moore, Lee Dixon, a sensational new dancer, Glenda Farrell, Osgood Perkins, Donald Meek, Rosalind Marquis, Irene Ware and other fun-makers, plus 200 dancing beauties trained by Busby Berkeley. Those who have seen previews of "Gold Diggers of 1937" proclaim it to be funnier and more tuneful than any of its predecessors, and especially are its settings of unusual size and beauty.

The story of a daring thief lured by a board of gems that would stagger the Count of Monte Cristo, and of the blonde sleuth in satin who caught him is the theme of the story of New York's Diamond Row, "15 Maiden Lane," the companion feature, Claire Trevor and Cesar Romero head the cast.

The president of the union, Miss Grace Parker, presided at the very short business meeting and introduced the speaker. After Mr. Feagan had started to speak Miss Parker discovered that she had forgotten to introduce the soprano soloist, Mrs. Olson. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Eagleston.

NEW ADDITION TO PARK CIRCLE FIRE STATION IS A THING OF BEAUTY

The Park Circle fire station which was erected in 1925 has been enlarged by the W. P. A. and is a beautiful building. In the front is a light which was one of Arlington's street lamps with its original gas pole. An insignia adorns the building, and a new terrace has been made.

Now there is more space in the engine room, and a new sliding door has been added, as well as a common room and a kitchen that would make any woman proud. The beautiful pine panelling, over a hundred years old, taken from the Funeral services were held at her late home on Wednesday, February 3, at 2:00 p. m. Burial was in Cambridge Cemetery. Mrs. Quitilia Anna (Richard) Russell, who lived with her daughter, Mrs. Bradley A. McCausland, at 39 Newport street, died early Saturday morning at the same hour as did her brother, Delroy Gross Birchard, 97, at Cambridge Springs, Pennsylvania. Mrs. Russell became ill on her 91st birthday, December 5, and her brother had been sick for the past two weeks. Neither knew the other was ill.

Funeral services for Mrs. Russell were held in the chapel of Saville and Kimball at 418 Massachusetts avenue, which was crowded with friends. Rev. Grady D. Feagan, minister of the First Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was in Mt. Hope Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Mrs. Russell, widow of Edward L. Russell, who died in 1931, was born 91 years ago to Levi G. Birchard and Elizabeth Cross in Hartstown, Pennsylvania. She lived in Cambridge Springs, Pennsylvania, until ten years ago, when she moved to Arlington.

For a hobby Mrs. E. L. Russell wrote poetry, and on her 90th birthday a book of her poems, entitled, "The Star of Christmas," was published. ## 27 YEARS OF SERVICE

The Boy Scouts of America, incorporated February 8, 1910, and chartered by Congress June 15, 1916, have during the past twenty-seven years rendered notable service to the Nation. They have done effective work in this community and throughout the country. During the World War their efforts on behalf of the Liberty Loan and War Savings campaigns and other measures were outstanding. In times of distress from flood, hurricane, or tornado, they have proved the effectiveness of organized boy service. During the period of economic stress through which the country has just passed, they contributed in many ways to the relief of suffering and in the flood areas this year they are giving splendid service.

From February 7 to February 13 the organization will celebrate its twenty-seventh anniversary. We earnestly urge our civic organizations, our churches and our schools to cooperate with Schem Council in carrying out an anniversary program for a definite recognition of the effective service rendered by the Boy Scouts of America to the end that the work of the Boy Scout Program may be extended to a larger proportion of the boyhood of this town.

Still one more story about the "Pirates of Penzance". After the show one of the members of the chorus had the misfortune to drop his automobile key through a narrow crack in the floor of Dr. Kennedy's front porch. With tools manufactured on the moment in his dental laboratory, the good doctor spent two hours trying to fish up the elusive key, but gave up when his bungling assistant let the thing escape his grasp after its momentary appearance above the floorboards. Never mind what he said.

The doctor's efforts must have exhausted the whole Kennedy family. The next morning the erstwhile bungling assistant came around with carpenter Norman Hingley and a couple of pinch-bars. They tore up the porch floor, retrieved the key and hammered the boards back into place, without rousing anyone in the house.

The program for the Gilbert & Sullivan show might well have carried the following legend on the title page:
"FIGHTERS OF FLUENZANCE"
by
Chilled-a-bit & Sufferin'

Quite rightly, the Boston papers made much of the capture of the "taxi robbers" in Arlington Sunday night. They all carried pictures of the two arrested men and their captors, Officers Curran and Clinton Peabody, as well as Lieutenant Sullivan, who held the automatic pistol used by the robbers. The alert filling station attendant, George Smith, who gave the alarm, also came in for his share of well-deserved glory.

But none of the papers pictured the most important factor in the capture. No one took a picture of the radio, probably because when you have seen one, you have seen them all. Nevertheless, without the radio, immediate capture would not have been possible. A two-way system added to our local service is the next logical step toward better and better police protection.

A new title was conferred upon Rev. Grady D. Feagan of the First Baptist Church the other day. His little daughter called him her "great, big, beautiful, streamlined daddy."

When is the Citizens' Committee going to do something about endorsing candidates for various town offices? Election is little more than three weeks away.

Someday, we predict, the town will realize that Chief Daniel B. Tierney of the fire department has been a tremendous asset in ways other than simply as a first-class fire extinguisher. In the various fire stations of the town he is making collections of historical relics, which will, in the future, be invaluable. It's a wonderful thing that there are among us a few people who can look forward and backward at the same time. Chief Tierney is one with an extra pair of eyes in the back of his head; his men will testify to that.

Speaking of old things, James O. Holt was cleaning out his desk the other day when he ran across two receipted bills made out to the Universalist Society by the Arlington Advocate printing department when it was called "Arlington Press Association—Steam Book and Job Printers, Chas. S. Parker, manager." One bill was dated January 26, 1874, and contained the item, "100 colored cards (dance tickets) . . . $1.50," which is exactly the same price that we would charge this very minute. No wonder we're not getting rich.

In Germany the farmer is assured that his farm will be his, through generations—no one can take his farm regardless of financial obligations. The government will so fix it. In 1933, six million were unemployed; today there are only one million idle, according to Hitler.

Canada sought to establish unemployment insurance, hours of labor, minimum wages and regulation of marketing. The empire's highest judicial body rules each above act unconstitutional.

Fifty Years Ago This Week

A local paper is a more important factor in town matters than some are apt to imagine.

The pupils in the public schools are much interested in a proposed course of illustrated lectures on historical subjects soon to be introduced for their benefit.

We are reminded that a long while ago the town voted that the street lamps should be lighted on cloudy and stormy nights during the "moonlight" portion of any month. Why is this vote disregarded?

The funeral of the depot master at Lake street occurred on Wednesday. Mr. Breslan has many years filled the position of flag man and since the establishment of a depot at this point the more important place of station master. He was universally represented by patrons of the road and others.

The hour for opening the afternoon session of the public schools was changed back to two o'clock, February 1st.

The new honor conferred on Rev. Matthew Harkins, making him Bishop of Providence, was heard with marked expression of pleasure in Arlington.

The talk in regard to horse railroad extension to Arlington Heights has led to some tangible offers in the way of stock subscriptions, and the scheme may materialize one of these days.

Among the names mentioned as candidates for Selectmen, besides the present board who we understand will not refuse to serve, are George D. Moore, Warren W. Rawson, James A. Bailey, Timothy O'Leary, R. Walter Hilliard, Wendell E. Richardson, R. W. Hopkins.

Mr. John T. White, a prominent citizen of the Heights district, is seriously sick at his home.

Last Saturday evening news was received by telegraph of the reappointment of Mr. Fred E. Fowle to the office of post-master of Arlington.

Twenty-five Years Ago This Week

Mr. and Mrs. Pickhardt, 1042 Madison avenue, New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edith Clara, to Mr. Jeremiah Colman of Arlington. Mr. Colman is widely known here, is a member of the class of 1901, M. I. T., and is with Tewksbury & Co., bankers, Boston.

Mrs. Laura J. Bond of 18 Linwood street, was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening, January 25th, by the committee who served with her as assistant chairman on the installation supper of Longfellow Chapter, No. 117, O. E. S. During the evening Mrs. Bond was presented with a beautiful O. E. S. pin by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Annie S. Carter, of E. Weymouth, in behalf of those present. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bain, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Jones, Capt. and Mrs. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Finley, Mrs. Grace Whittier, Mrs. S. B. Masson of Arlington, Mrs. L. M. Thompson, Cambridge, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Collins of Watertown, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Fleming, Miss C. L. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hardy of West Somerville.

Arlington High, class of 1896 recently held its annual reunion at the attractive home of Mrs. A. D. Woodworth on Norfolk road. The class numbers nineteen and remains with ranks unbroken by death. The evening was one of rare pleasure. The favors were violets and the table decorations in violet, white and gold, the class colors. The Jack Horner pie created no end of amusement and the evening was, in fact, one to be long remembered for happy incidents.

The Dickens' carnival has been postponed to Thursday, February 15.

Miss Pauline Russell has a mild case of diphtheria. She is sick at her parents' home, the George O. Russells, of Jason street.

Rev. S. C. Bushnell went over to New York, on Thursday, to attend a meeting of the Yale Stadium Committee of which he is a member.

Friends will be glad to learn that Mr. Frank E. Thompson, is at present more comfortable. Mr. Thompson suffered an alarming and serious prostration at his residence, 208 Pleasant street, on Sunday of last week, from which, we fear, his recovery will be slow.

Many of Comrade Alfred H. Knowles' friends in G. A. R. circles remembered his seventieth birthday, which was Saturday of last week, with a post-card shower.

Miss Helen G. Rolfe spent the week-end with relatives in Newburyport. She went to Newburyport to attend the wedding of a friend married Saturday, January 27th.

A. J. Wellington, Esq., has vacated his office in Postoffice building and taken the offices in the Bank Block, on the second floor, occupied so many years by Wm. H. Tuttle, Esq.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tyner of 837 Massachusetts avenue will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, which occurs on February 13th, with a reception at their home.

Mrs. Alfred E. Meyers of 19 Lombard road, sails this Saturday, February 3rd, from New York, with her sister, Mrs. E. A. Cowan, of Hotel Lenox, Boston, on the steamer Havana for Havana, Cuba. They will be absent between four and six weeks.

Hovaness Compositions Played by Civic Symphony

Two original fantasies, "Monadnock" and "Boreas and Mt. Wildcat", were played by the Boston Civic Symphony orchestra, Joseph Wagner, conductor, Sunday evening, in Jordan Hall, in the presence of the composer, Alan Scott Hovaness, formerly of Arlington, and son of Prof. H. H. Chakmakjian of 9 Blossom street. "Monadnock" was played then for the first time anywhere.

The Boston Herald says of Mr. Hovaness' works: "The fantasies of Alan Scott Hovaness had more of a Russian or middle European flavor than might have been expected from a writer born in Somerville 26 years ago and now living in Cambridge. His new composition, 'Monadnock', was completed in March of last year, and seemed to reflect something of Bach and Tchaikovsky rather than anything characteristically New England. But it was designed as a tribute, not a description, and certainly accomplished its purpose. Both 'Monadnock' and 'Boreas and Mt. Wildcat' were written with vigor and enthusiasm, and gave promise of more impressive things to come."

Symmes Hospital Officers Re-elected

The annual meeting of the Symmes Arlington Hospital was held recently. The officers were re-elected as follows: H. A. Phinney, president; Eben F. Dewing, 1st vice-president; John L. Taylor, 2nd vice-president; Walter T. Chamberlain, treasurer, and Harold G. Storke, clerk. The following trustees were re-elected: John A. Bishop, John G. Brackett, Wilson D. Clark, Jr., Wentworth C. Carr, Walter T. Chamberlain, Howard E. Cousins, Eben F. Dewing, Harold M. Estabrook, Richard D. Greene, Franklin P. Hawkes, Philip A. Hendrick, Frederick W. Hill, James O. Holt, Clarence A. Moore, Horatio A. Phinney, Mrs. Robert W. Murphy, Mrs. Herbert W. Reed, Mrs. Frank D. Sawyer, Harold G. Storke, John L. Taylor, Miss Edith Winn, and John P. Wright. In addition, Mrs. Clifford R. Gleason was elected a trustee to fill a vacancy. Reports of officers and committees were read and staff physicians and consultants were elected.

HUNT WEEK

The week of February 1 has been officially designated as "Hunt Week" in Arlington and the slogan

ARLINGTON HAD GROWING PAINS, TOO MODERNNESS

By Mary F. Clarke

The Arlington Police Department is in tune with the times in several ways. Through the foresightedness of the Chief, the department is the first in the state to have a finger-printing outfit. Every print is sent at once to Washington to be classified and filed in company with six or seven million other similar yet importantly dissimilar ones.

When more information is needed about a suspect, as per orders, his fingerprint is speeded to the capital where there is a machine, a sort of robot that goes through four hundred prints per minute until it reaches the one in question, when it does something wonderful, makes a noise or pushes it out before your eyes. Anyway, quite miraculously it does the trick and it may be that this particular criminal is the one wanted in half a dozen cities for forgery and embezzlement.

What a fine help to departments all over the country for fast, accurate work!

One of the greatest helps to the modern police force is the cruising car. Arlington has three. Let no one be mistaken about this and think it a vast unnecessary expense, for it is not. It means constant communication with headquarters from every precinct in the town, and is an expression of up-to-date police intelligence.

Arlington is the first town in New England (which is saying something) to have the Police Broadcast—Station WPED. The Broadcast is also for five other neighboring towns who pay their quota to Arlington for this privilege. Reading and Belmont may be added to the group.

A recent innovation, another of the Chief's ideas, is to have special telephone connection from those five towns—Lexington, Stoneham, Wakefield, Winchester and Woburn, so there will be no wasted seconds in case an important arrest is to be made.

With such efficient machinery for the apprehension of criminals, it would seem as if the lawbreaker would be scared of his life. Instead he goes right on demanding the greatest ingenuity and the best brains to put a stop to his lawlessness.

Redouble Efforts As Drive Nears Close

While Arlington made a good showing in the first week of Greater Boston's 1937 Community Fund Campaign, Philip A. Hendrick, Community chairman, spurred his workers on to far greater efforts in the final lap this week. Arlington had raised 43.8 per cent of its quota when its official audit was made Monday.

"The last long mile in our race for the minimum goal of $4,160,000 looms longer than ever," said Mr. Hendrick. "We are earnestly doubling our efforts to meet the pressing all-year-round demands of local human needs, in addition to doing our part for those afflicted in the flood areas of the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys."

"Contributions for flood relief from the area covered by the Boston Metropolitan Chapter may be sent to Greater Boston's 1937 Community Fund Campaign, 70 Federal Street, Boston, or to the Community Chairman."

was Preston Orchard. Phyllis Sylvester's drawing was second choice, and Thomas Donlon was third. The other competitors were Virginia Lantiqua, Frederick Conner, John Buckley, Helen Peabody, Russell Newcomb, Jane Carroll, William Allen and Stanley Larson.

The program really opened with an enlightening address by President A. William Platine, who explained that the program to follow was to further the appreciation of art. Program Chairman Earl A. Ryder introduced Laurence Breed Walker, who spoke for more than an hour on and around the subject of Paul Revere and his contribution to American liberty. He punctuated his address with numerous humorous stories, and while he offended some with uncompromising statements, the net result was most enjoyable.

Mr. Ryder then introduced Mr. Dallin, who reviewed the history of his dealings with the City of Boston in connection with his model of Paul Revere which won the contest conducted by the city more than fifty years ago. He told why the statue had never been made and erected in Boston, and offered it to the town of Arlington for ten thousand dollars less than the price Boston would have to pay.

The art students and their works were introduced by Arthur Birch with an explanatory address. Arthur Gilmour operated the projector.

During the business meeting which preceded the program, Anna B. Callahan read a very complete report of the previous meeting and the treasurer's report. She also read a letter inviting the members of the Chamber of Commerce and everyone else to attend the lecture on Communism to be presented at Robbins Memorial Town Hall Sunday afternoon by Rev. Russell Sullivan, S. J., sponsored by St. Agnes Court, Catholic Daughters of America.

Mr. Ryder made a very moving appeal for the support of the Arlington Community Symphony Orchestra, which presents its second concert of the next Tuesday evening.

Daniel M. Hooley was elected into membership.

Concerning the proposal of Mr. Birch, a long letter, written by Lewis E. Stickney, was published in the Advocate last week. Mr. Stickney now adds the following: "There are two distinctive sentimental pictures in connection with Mr. Birch's proposal, and they are both equally good to look upon: one exhibiting a manifestation of our reverence for the long since departed Revere, and the spectacular part which he played in those days when Menotomy was young and her people ready and determined to struggle for that freedom which is ours today, and the other portraying the respect and admiration which we hold for one of our living citizens: one who, through his visionary powers, has been able to produce, in remarkable realism, a wonderful concept of the immortal Paul.

"Therefore, if Mr. Birch's proposal becomes a reality, it will be as a link uniting the buried historic past with the perceptible living present, and thus the future citizens of Arlington (Menotomy) will have photographed indelibly in their minds, a reflection of both our reverence for the patriotic deed, and our recognition of the worth of the illustrious living. Furthermore, the addition of this realistic vision of Revere on his way to Lexington, to the determined stand, in that Town, as already represented by the figure of Captain Parker, and to the dogged resistance at Concord of the Minute Men from surrounding country as portrayed by its memorials, will complete in full detail, insofar as possible, this historic panorama."

graduates who, especially in a period when art patronage by private individuals has almost vanished, could not have hoped for recognition for years. These Federal Art Project exhibitions have introduced to the public, artists who, competent critics assert, are certain to be outstanding in the role of artists a few years hence. The public is cordially invited to the exhibition at the library.

Included in the selection are oils by the well known artists, Charles Curtis Allen, Mary B. Hazelton, Marion Huse; water colors by William B. Hazelton, Polly Nordell and others.

REPORT FROM OHIO

dark room on the seventeenth floor. Had not the convention been scheduled beforehand and arrangements already made, it would never have taken place under the conditions. "The greatest hardship was the lack of drinking water and the members of the convention tried to help by sharing their own meager supply with the thirsty multitude. "On four o'clock of the same day a special meeting was held by the members of the convention to raise funds as quickly as possible to aid the Red Cross in its work. Everyone gave an instant and voluntary contribution and at the end of fifteen minutes a sum of thirteen hundred dollars was collected. The meeting was quickly adjourned after important questions had been discussed and the entertainments which ordinarily follow such conventions were omitted since none of us felt it in our hearts to engage in the festivities which had been so carefully planned. All about us was sorrow and desolation, ruin and chaos. Hundreds of once happy homes were swept away or left in ruins, with attendant famine, disease, and death casting a black shadow over the unfortunate city.

"At five o'clock I was taken about the city to see the ravages of the flood. I was touched by the marks of thirst, hunger, cold, and suffering written on the faces of everyone. In all that great crowd not a single smiling countenance was to be seen.

"The National Cleaners and Dyers Association, after a short meeting Tuesday morning, postponed all further business and left Cincinnati to return to Norwood. On the way I saw countless trains transporting their sad-eyed occupants away to safety—never have I seen such an endless line of trains.

"Everyone has seen pictures and read accounts of the deluge in the newspapers, but no report can possibly portray the real distress and misery in that great city as I saw it with my own eyes. I feel that we, the citizens of Arlington, who have been spared by the grace of God, must do our utmost to alleviate the sufferings of our brothers in their distress. Let us encourage the American Red Cross in providto his audience in a friendly and informal way, occasionally requesting them to join in on a familiar chorus.

The rendition of old and new favorite hymns in chorus, quartette, duet, and solo arrangements, accompanied by an instrumental background, with a generous variety of inspirational poems, will constitute the major part of the program.

About a year ago, "Uncle Elmer" gave one of the informal but excellent services of gospel songs at the Calvary Church. The place was filled to capacity with all available space used for extra chairs and standing room in spite of the bad weather.

"Uncle Elmer" began his broadcasting nearly ten years ago as a guitar player with Bob Emery on WEEL and WNAC.

Murray L. Purdy, 24 Pondview road, a member of the Calvary Church, is also a member of the song circle, and undoubtedly many Arlington people will be anxious to hear him. The other members of the circle come from all over Greater Boston and will be introduced by "Uncle Elmer."

ported that their district had plenty of land; need was not for more land but of rendering places already owned fit for use. No great expense is involved.

Quite different, however, was the situation at the ends of the town. The committee for East Arlington reported that with the exception of small playgrounds, suitable only for young children, that section of the town was very poor in land holding. They recommended the purchase of two sites, one on the north chase of two sites, one on the north Massachusetts avenue.

The committee for the Heights reported a similar condition in the west end of the town and also recommended the purchase of two tracts of land, one on either side of the avenue.

The members of the general committee feel that land values are reasonably low at the moment but are not likely to remain so. There are indications that a real building boom is already in progress. Consequently, the committee recommends that the town purchase park lands in both East Arlington and the Heights.

The committee feels very strongly that the town must take care of the recreational needs of the youth. Sanford Bates, one of the greatest of authorities on the prevention of crime, has resigned his position as head of U. S. prisons in order that he may devote his full attention to the "problem boys." He, like Chief Archie F. Bullock of the Arlington police department, believes in preventative rather than curative medicine. Chief Bullock has long been an advocate of more and better playgrounds. He has recently appointed one of his officers whose principal duty is to look after the boys who are on parole.

"Let us look after them before they become problems boys," is the cry.

"AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS WORTH A POUND OF CURE."

"Traume", which was preceded by the masterful classic overture, "Iphigenie en Aulis" by Gluck. After the "Prelude" by Hammer came part of the "Rouslane et Ludmilla" overture by Glinka, a brilliant closing!

The winners of the poster contest were introduced by President William A. Muller and presented with prizes.

Miss Constance Tortorici, winner of the five dollar first prize, turned the money back to Mr. Muller, saying that she wished to contribute that amount to the Arlington Community Chest. Second prize went to Miss Marcia Weatherill, and the Misses Kathryn Whitcomb, Mildred Zwicker and Charles Tenney won third money.

At Tuesday night's concert the orchestra will play in addition to the abbreviated program mentioned above the famous ballet music from "Prince Igor." Miss Brookings will sing Wagner's great Liebestod (Love Death) and will also render two songs written by the orchestra's director, Leonard Wood.

the downtrodden Oscar finally asserts himself.

One of the most human figures in the drawing, snooty country postman played by Wallace Powers. Chester Ginder makes a very fierce leader of a striking mob, among whom may be found Robert Wellington and William Eldredge. The fine character of Colonel Adams, who is not afraid to give John Powers his opinion of munition manufacturers, is well portrayed by David W. W. Parsons.

Mrs. John K. Berry plays very sincerely the emotional part of Mary, while the highly excitable Italian plant manager is well done by Alfred Repetto. William Mower is a very dignified member of the clergy who with his committee of John Matthews and Harold Ring makes a strong appeal to Mr. Powers for the Red Cross.

Among the munitions salesmen gathered from the four corners of the earth may be found many well known Arlington people. The one salesman who shows character enough to leave the munition business is played by Bradford Doty. The others who scheme with John Powers to plunge the world into war are Leonard Roberts, Charles Frederick, Warren Guild, Dr. Randolph Juthe, Albert Peirce, Paul Hutchinson, Meredith Brown and William Eldredge.

As advertised, the Friday evening performance begins at 8:15. Tickets may be purchased at Ham's Candy Store or at the door. All seats are reserved at no extra charge.

For the convenience of the many Junior High and High School pupils, a special students' matinee will be held on Friday at 4 o'clock. Tickets will be only 15 cents, and a free ice cream will be given to everyone attending the performance.
